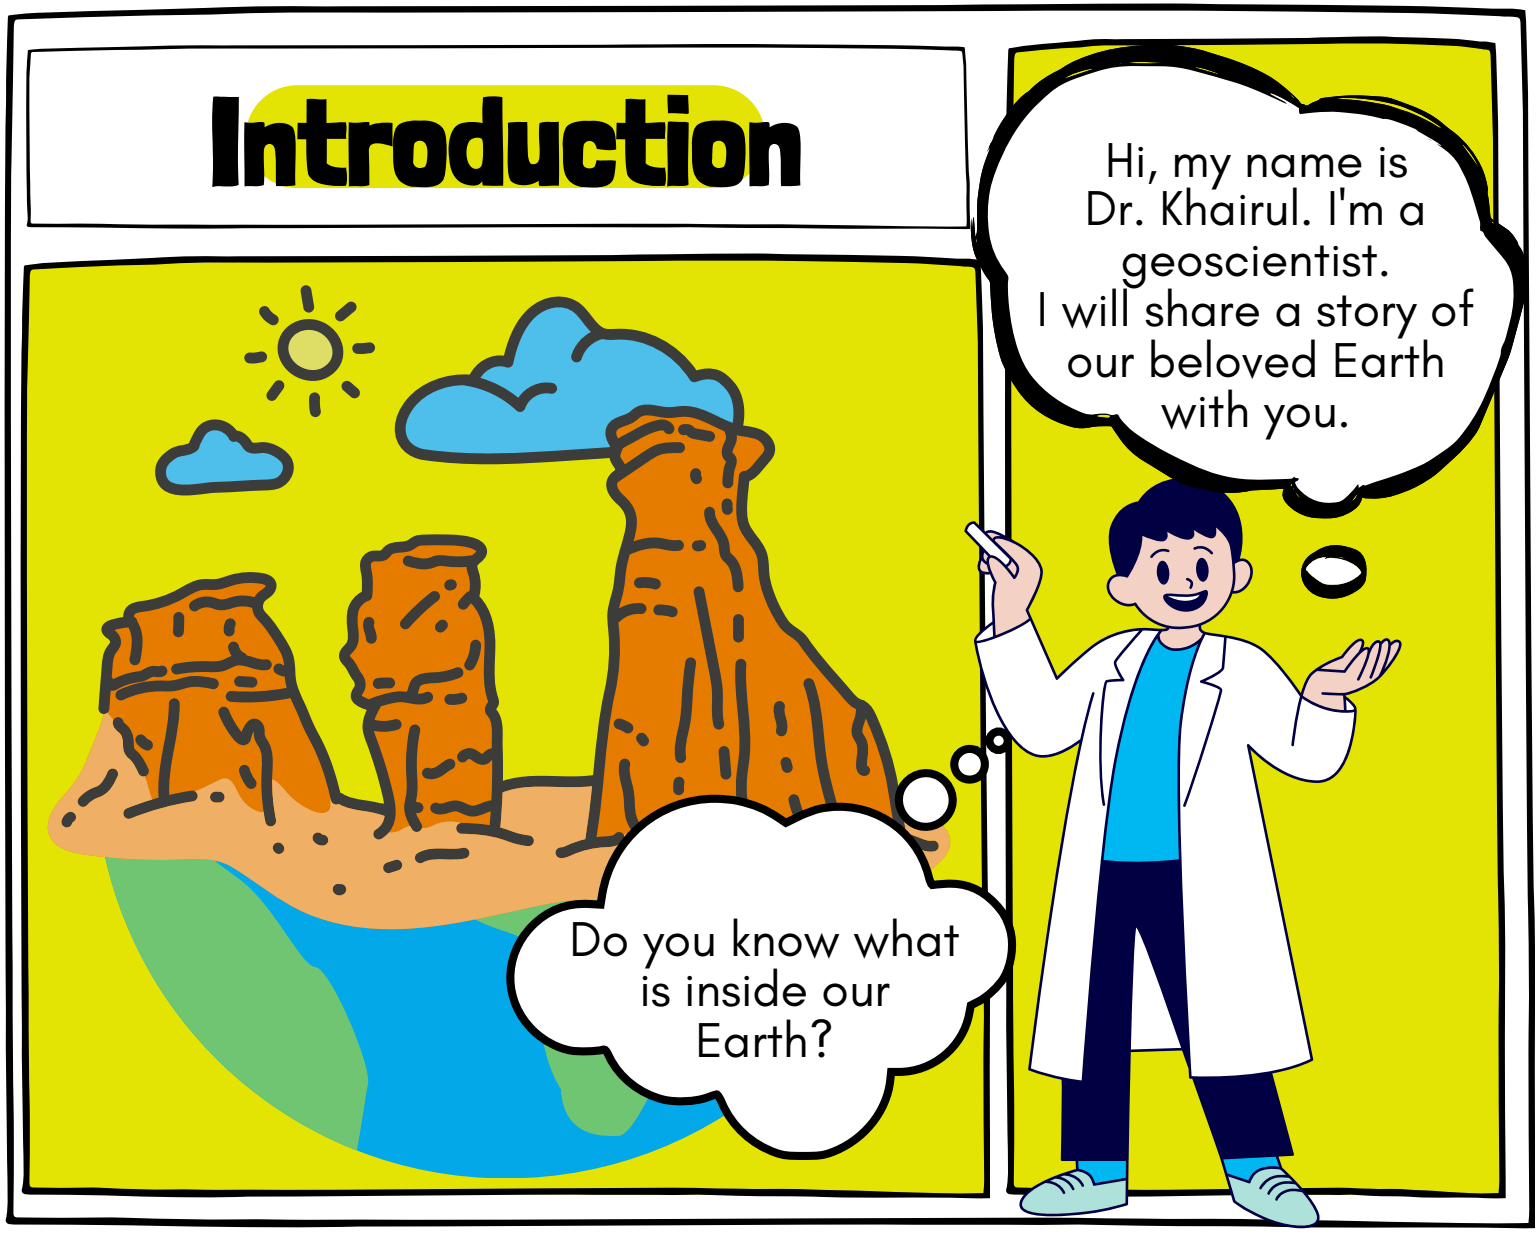
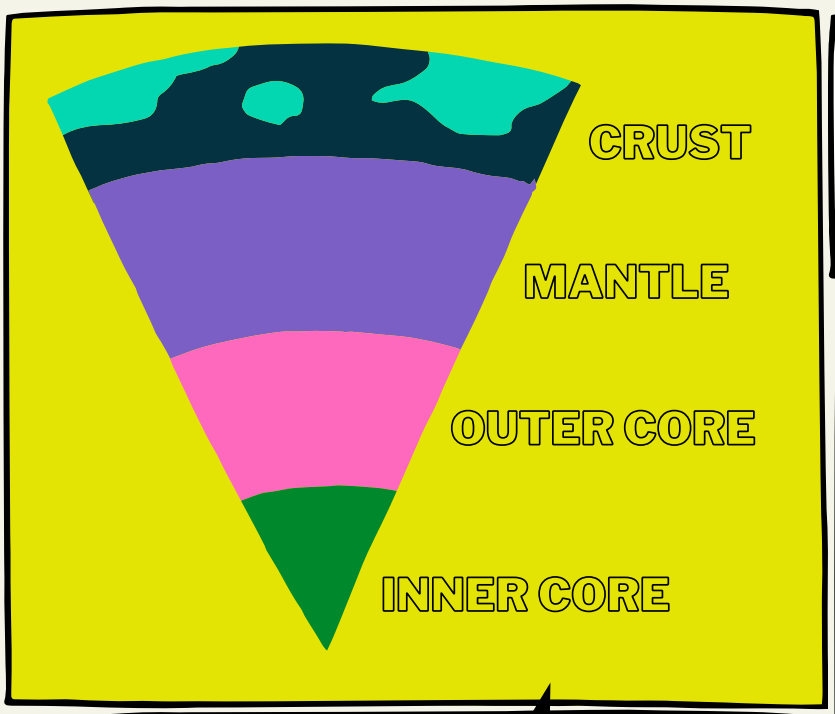
Introduction





When differentiating the layers, geoscientist group into two categories based on the physical and chemical properties of the rock.

